In particular, no action has been taken by the Issuer, the Guarantors, the Arranger, the Dealer, the JSE Debt Sponsor, their Affiliates or the professional advisors which would permit a public offering of any Notes or distribution of this document in any jurisdiction where action for that purpose is required. Accordingly, no Notes may be offered or sold, directly or indirectly, and neither this Information Statement nor any advertisement nor other offering material may be distributed or published in any jurisdiction, except under circumstances that will result in compliance with any Applicable Laws and regulations. ## INVESTOR CONSIDERATIONS / RISK FACTORS

Capitalised terms used in this section headed “Investor Considerations/Risk Factors” shall bear the same meanings as used in the Terms and Conditions, except to the extent that they are separately defined in this section, or this is clearly inappropriate from the context.

The Issuer believes that the factors outlined below may affect its ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes. All of these factors are contingencies which may or may not occur and the Issuer is not in a position to express a view on the likelihood of any such contingency occurring. In addition, factors which are material for the purpose of assessing the market risks associated with the Notes are also described below. The value of the Notes could decline due to any of these risks, and investors may lose some or all of their investment.

The Issuer believes that the factors described below represent the principal risks inherent in investing in the Notes, but the inability of the Issuer to pay interest, principal or other amounts on or in connection with any Notes may occur for other reasons which may not be considered significant risks by the Issuer based on information available to it at the date of this Information Statement (the Information Statement Date), or which it may not be able to anticipate at the Information Statement Date. Accordingly, the Issuer does not represent that the statements below regarding the risks of holding any Notes are exhaustive.

Prospective investors should also read the detailed information set out elsewhere in the Programme Memorandum to reach their own views prior to making any investment decision.

References below to the “Terms and Conditions”, in relation to Notes, shall mean the “Terms and Conditions of the Notes” set out under the section of the Programme Memorandum headed “Terms and Conditions of the Notes”.

Factors that may affect the Issuer’s ability to fulfil its obligations under Notes issued under the Programme

Risks Relating to the Notes

The Notes may not be a suitable investment for all investors

Each potential investor in any Notes must determine the suitability of that investment in light of its own circumstances. In particular, each potential investor should:

- have sufficient knowledge and experience to make a meaningful evaluation of the Notes, the merits and risks of investing in the Notes and the information contained or incorporated by reference in the Programme Memorandum or any applicable supplement;
- have access to, and knowledge of, appropriate analytical tools to evaluate, in the context of its particular financial situation, an investment in the Notes and the impact such an investment will have on its overall investment portfolio;
- have sufficient financial resources and liquidity to bear all of the risks of an investment in the Notes, including Notes with principal or interest payable in one or more currencies, or where the currency for principal or interest payments is different from the potential investor’s currency;
- understand thoroughly the terms of the Notes and be familiar with the behaviour of any relevant indices and financial markets; and
- be able to evaluate (either alone or with the help of a financial adviser) possible scenarios for economic, interest rate and other factors that may affect its investment and its ability to bear the applicable risks.

Some Notes are complex financial instruments. Sophisticated institutional investors generally do not purchase complex financial instruments as stand-alone investments. They purchase complex financial instruments as a way to reduce risk or enhance yield with an understood, measured and appropriate addition of risk to their overall portfolios. A potential investor should not invest in Notes which are complex financial instruments unless it has the expertise (either alone or with a financial adviser) to evaluate how the Notes will perform under changing conditions, the resulting effects on the value of the Notes and the impact this investment will have on the potential investor’s overall investment portfolio.

There may not be an active trading market for the Notes

Notes issued under the Programme will be new securities which may not be widely distributed and for which there is currently no active trading market (unless in the case of any particular Tranche, such Tranche is to be consolidated with and form a single series with a Tranche of Notes which is already issued). If the Notes are traded after their initial issuance, they may trade at a discount to their initial offering price, depending upon prevailing interest rates, the market for similar securities, general economic conditions and the financial condition of the Issuer. There is no assurance as to the development or liquidity of any trading market for any particular Tranche of Notes.

The Notes may be redeemed prior to maturity

Unless in the case of any particular Tranche of Notes the Applicable Pricing Supplement specifies otherwise, in the event that the Issuer would be obliged to increase the amounts payable in respect of any Notes due to any withholding or deduction for or on account of any present or future taxes, duties, assessments or governmental charges of whatever nature imposed, levied, collected, withheld or assessed by or on behalf of the government of South Africa or any political subdivision thereof or any authority therein or thereof having power to tax, the Issuer may redeem all outstanding Notes in accordance with the Conditions.

In addition, if in the case of any particular Tranche of Notes the Applicable Pricing Supplement specifies that the Notes are redeemable at the Issuer's option in certain other circumstances, the Issuer may choose to redeem the Notes at times when prevailing interest rates may be relatively low. In such circumstances an investor may not be able to reinvest the redemption proceeds in a comparable security at an effective interest rate as high as that of the relevant Notes.

Because uncertificated Notes are held in the CSD, investors will have to rely on their procedures for transfer, payment and communication with the Issuer

Notes issued under the Programme which are listed on the Interest Rate Market of the JSE or such other or additional Financial Exchange and/or held in the CSD may, subject to Applicable Laws and the Applicable Procedures, be issued in uncertificated form. Unlisted Notes may also be held in the CSD in uncertificated form. Notes held in the CSD will be issued, cleared and settled in accordance with the Applicable Procedures through the electronic settlement system of the CSD. Except in the limited circumstances described in the Terms and Conditions, investors will not be entitled to receive Individual Certificates. The CSD will maintain records of the Beneficial Interests in Notes issued in uncertificated form, which are held in the CSD (whether such Notes are listed or unlisted). Investors will be able to trade their Beneficial Interests only through the CSD and in accordance with the Applicable Procedures.

Payments of principal and/or interest in respect of uncertificated Notes will be made to the CSD or the Participants and the Issuer will discharge its payment obligations under the Notes by making payments to or to the order of the CSD or the Participants for distribution to their account holders. A holder of a Beneficial Interest in uncertificated Notes, whether listed or unlisted, must rely on the procedures of the CSD to receive payments under the relevant Notes. Each investor shown in the records of the CSD or the Participants, as the case may be, shall look solely to the CSD or the Participant, as the case may be, for their share of each payment so made by the Issuer to the registered holder of such uncertificated Notes. The Issuer has no responsibility or liability for the records relating to, or payments made in respect of, such Beneficial Interests.

Holders of Beneficial Interests in uncertificated Notes will not have a direct right to vote in respect of the relevant Notes. Instead, such holders will be permitted to act only to the extent that they are enabled by the CSD to appoint appropriate proxies.

Recourse to the JSE Debt Guarantee Fund Trust

The holders of Notes that are not listed on the Interest Rate Market of the JSE will have no recourse against the JSE Debt Guarantee Fund Trust. Claims against the JSE Debt Guarantee Fund Trust may only be made in respect of the trading of Notes listed on the Interest Rate Market of the JSE and in accordance with the rules of the JSE Debt Guarantee Fund Trust. Unlisted notes are not regulated by the JSE.

Credit Rating

Tranches of Notes issued under the Programme, the Issuer, and/or the Guarantors, as the case may be, may be rated or unrated. A Rating is not a recommendation to buy, sell or hold securities and may be subject to suspension, reduction or withdrawal at any time by the assigning Rating Agency. Any adverse change in an applicable credit rating could adversely affect the trading price for the Notes issued under the Programme.

Any amendment in the Rating of the Issuer and/or the Guarantor, as the case may be, after the Programme Date, will be announced on SENS.

Risks related to the structure of the particular issue of Notes

A wide range of Notes may be issued under the Programme. A number of these Notes may have features which contain particular risks for potential investors. Set out below is a description of certain such features:

Notes subject to optional redemption by the Issuer

An optional redemption feature is likely to limit the market value of the Notes. During any period when the Issuer may elect to redeem the Notes, the market value of those Notes generally will not rise substantially above the price at which they can be redeemed. This also may be true prior to any redemption period. The Issuer may be expected to redeem Notes when its cost of borrowing is lower than the interest rate on the Notes. At those times, an investor generally would not be able to re-invest the redemption proceeds at an effective interest rate as high as the interest rate on the Notes being redeemed and may only be able to do so at a significantly lower rate. Potential investors should consider reinvestment risk in light of other investments available at that time.

Index-Linked and Dual Currency Notes

The Issuer may issue Notes the terms of which provide for interest or principal payable in respect of such Notes to be determined by reference to an index or formula, to changes in the prices of securities or commodities, to movements in currency exchange rates or other factors (each, a Relevant Factor) or with principal or interest payable in one or more currencies which may be different from the currency in which the Notes are denominated. Potential investors should be aware that:

- the market price of such Notes may be volatile;
- no interest may be payable on such Notes;
- payments of principal or interest on such Notes may occur at a different time or in a different currency than expected;
- the amount of principal payable at redemption may be less than the Nominal Amount of such Notes or even zero;
- a Relevant Factor may be subject to significant fluctuations that may not correlate with changes in interest rates, currencies or other indices;
- if a Relevant Factor is applied to Notes in conjunction with a multiplier greater than one or contains some other leverage factor, the effect of changes in the Relevant Factor on principal or interest payable is likely to be magnified; and
- the timing of changes in a Relevant Factor may affect the actual yield to investors, even if the average level is consistent with their expectations. In general, the earlier the change in the Relevant Factor, the greater the effect on yield.

Partly paid Notes

The Issuer may issue Notes where the issue price is payable in more than one instalment. Failure to pay any subsequent instalment could result in an investor losing all of its investment.

Notes issued at a substantial discount or premium

The market values of securities issued at a substantial discount or premium from their principal amount tend to fluctuate more in relation to general changes in interest rates than do prices for conventional interest-bearing securities. Generally, the longer the remaining term of the securities, the greater the price volatility as compared to conventional interest-bearing securities with comparable maturities.

Variable Rate Notes with a multiplier or other leverage factor

Notes with variable interest rates can be volatile investments. If they are structured to include multipliers or other leverage factors, or caps or floors, or any combination of those features or other similar related features, their market values may be even more volatile than those for securities that do not include those features.

Fixed/Floating Rate Notes

Fixed/Floating Rate Notes may bear interest at a rate that the Issuer may elect to convert from a fixed rate to a floating rate, or from a floating rate to a fixed rate. The Issuer's ability to convert the interest rate will affect the secondary market and the market value of such Notes since the Issuer may be expected to convert the rate when it is likely to produce a lower overall cost of borrowing. If the Issuer converts from a fixed rate to a floating rate, the spread on the Fixed/Floating Rate Notes may be less favourable than then prevailing spreads on comparable Floating Rate Notes tied to the same reference rate. In addition, the new floating rate may at any time be lower than the rates on other Notes. If the Issuer converts from a floating rate to a fixed rate, the fixed rate may be lower than then prevailing rates on its Notes.

Notes where denominations involve integral multiples: Individual Certificates

In relation to any issue of Notes which have denominations consisting of a minimum Specified Denomination plus one or more higher integral multiples of another smaller amount, it is possible that such Notes may be traded in amounts that are not integral multiples of such minimum Specified Denomination. In such a case a holder who, as a result of trading such amounts, holds an amount which is less than the minimum Specified Denomination in his account with the relevant clearing system at the relevant time may not receive an Individual Certificate in respect of such holding and would need to purchase a Nominal Amount of Notes such that its holding amounts to a minimum Specified Denomination.

If Individual Certificates are issued, holders should be aware that Individual Certificates which have a denomination that is not an integral multiple of the minimum Specified Denomination may be illiquid and difficult to trade.

Modification and waivers and substitution

The Conditions contain provisions for calling meetings of Noteholders to consider matters affecting their interests generally. These provisions permit defined majorities to bind all Noteholders including Noteholders who did not attend and vote at the relevant meeting and Noteholders who voted in a manner contrary to the majority.

Change of law

The Notes are governed by, and will be construed in accordance with, South African law in effect as at the Programme Date. No assurance can be given as to the impact of any possible judicial decision, change to South African law or administrative practice in South Africa after the Programme Date.

Legal investment considerations may restrict certain investments

The investment activities of certain investors are subject to legal investment laws and regulations, or review or regulation by certain authorities. Each potential investor should consult its legal advisers to determine whether and to what extent (1) Notes are legal investments for it, (2) Notes can be used as collateral for various types of borrowing and (3) other restrictions apply to its purchase or pledge of any Notes. Financial institutions should consult their legal advisers or the appropriate regulators to determine the appropriate treatment of Notes under any applicable risk-based capital or similar rules.

Risks Relating to the Issuer's Business

Healthcare funders and the cost of care

Healthcare funders have a significant influence on patients' accessibility to healthcare and their decisions affect the Group's revenue and market share. The Group is under continuous revenue pressure from healthcare funders looking to manage the overall cost of healthcare. In response to escalations in healthcare costs and the utilisation of healthcare services, funders have instituted a range of initiatives to manage down their costs.

Private healthcare funders reimburse c.95.0% of the Group's hospital division's revenue in southern Africa and funder managed care initiatives aim to reduce hospital admission rates. They have introduced more affordable plans but with less cover and increased restricted provider networks. The Group's admission rates could be impacted by its ability to secure provider network agreements with healthcare funders.

Internationally, a large proportion of revenue AMG's is derived from public funders, ranging between 40% to 90% in the different geographies in which they operate.

The increased cost of care remains a reality across the regions in which the Group operates. Providing efficient and affordable care options is crucial in enabling the Group to achieve its mission of improving the lives of people through the delivery of high-quality yet cost effective care.

Factors impacting this risk are:

- Healthcare funders
  - Increased bargaining power of private funders due to consolidation of market
  - Strong competition for access to provider network agreements
  - Competitive tenders for contracts with public healthcare sector internationally
  - Changes in healthcare tariffs by either public or private payors
  - Rising tariffs and costs of delivering healthcare may reduce the affordability of private healthcare in southern Africa which is largely funded by self-pay or employer subsidies.
- Cost of care
  - Healthcare funders are under pressure to contain costs so that increases in healthcare insurance premiums don't reduce affordability and lives under coverage
  - Specialised and critical skills shortages could lead to increases in salary costs and also to loss of employees to competitors or to other countries
  - Costs of resources, materials and services to maintain quality of care
  - Fluctuating exchange rates which impact imported products such as surgical consumables and medical equipment

Specialised skills shortage

People are the Group's most important asset and are key to its ongoing success. The limited availability of skilled health professionals, including doctors, pharmacists, radiographers and radiologists, specialist and registered nurses, as well as ICU nurses, continues to be a concern globally.

The skills provided by these specialists are a key driver of the Group's ability to deliver quality care and services and to drive future growth across southern Africa and internationally.

The global skills shortage is a key driver of rising wage costs in the healthcare market.

Factors impacting this risk are:

- Highly competitive global skills market across both the public and private healthcare markets
- Immigration and other labour-related regulations and collective bargaining arrangements
- Limitations on types of training that the private sector can offer to grow the pool of skilled healthcare professionals
- Limited training and skills development initiatives, sponsorships and bursaries
- Illness and isolation reduced the available workforce at times during the COVID-19 pandemic and placed increased demand for the usage of temporary nursing and clinical resources

Quality of care and patient safety

Maintaining and improving the quality of care is linked to the Group's core values. It is also a crucial part of building strong and mutually beneficial relationships with the Group's stakeholders. Failure to consistently deliver safe, high-quality care represents a risk to the Group's reputation and long-term sustainability of its operations.

The Group is focussed on enhancing the patient experience and protecting our reputation through an ongoing focus on quality and safety which will be driven by:

- Improving patient care and safety according to industry best practice through continuous, robust engagements with health authorities and specialists.
- Delivering clinical excellence through a smaller, more efficient, better trained and educated nurse workforce.

- Developing clinical products that improve patient outcomes and deliver patient centric care.

Factors impacting this risk are:

- Clinical care, quality and patient safety standards and operating practices recommended, or legislated by governments and other healthcare regulators
- Internally developed Group policies, including clinical quality procedures and standard operating procedure frameworks
- Environmental, health and safety requirements and standards
- Technological innovation in healthcare necessitating changes to existing operating procedure and pathways
- Shortages in specialised skilled personnel including reduced availability of personnel due to illness/absenteeism as seen during the COVID-19 pandemic

Changes to regulations

The healthcare industry is highly regulated and, while this is often necessary, it does impact on the Group's growth opportunities and cost of care. The Group protects its reputation and licence to operate by complying with all applicable regulations.

Factors impacting this risk are:

- Changes to regulations around licensing, conduct of operations, security of medical records, occupational health and safety, quality standards and certain categories of pricing
- Compliance with the collection, storage, and security of medical records and personal information including compliance with POPIA in South Africa and GDPR data privacy regulations internationally
- Compliance with occupational health and safety and quality standards
- Potential impacts of the National Health Insurance proposals and Medical Schemes Amendment Bill on the Group's South Africa operations
- The impact of Brexit on the Group's UK and European operations particularly in terms of cross border employee recruitment and procurement
- Regulatory challenges for brownfield and greenfield expansion in any region the Group operates in
- Regulatory reforms that impact on revenue and profitability – or on their ability to attract and retain employees

Cyber-security and data protection

Information and information exchange are crucial to the delivery of quality care at all levels of the healthcare delivery system – the patient, clinicians and other healthcare service providers, funders and regulators.

There is a drive towards electronic health records and digitisation across the healthcare spectrum. The Group is investing in modernisation of its IT infrastructure and applications and introducing cloud-based storage and data-analytic capabilities so that its systems are an enabler for the move to digital healthcare environment.

Enhanced security and cyber-crime awareness are required for data security, storage and accessibility of data. The balance between securing data behind a firewall and making it readily accessible to employees and business partners must shift to support new ways of working (like work-from-home) while keeping existing business processes and operations moving.

Factors impacting this risk are:

- IT infrastructure capabilities, vulnerabilities, and controls
- Awareness, training and knowledge of cyber-threats across the organisation

- Increasing number of digital healthcare applications and connected devices (healthcare products, wearables, computers, phones, etc.) all of which can increase cyber-security and data protection risks
- Hybrid working arrangements (such as working-from-home) and movement of people across multiple geographies or work sites can increase cyber-security and data protection risks

COVID-19

COVID-19 continues to impact economies and societies world-wide and, given the Group's international footprint, its operations were at the frontline in combatting the effects of the pandemic. The Group continue to prioritise the safety and health of its nurses, clinicians, employees and patients. The Group's response to the pandemic has been informed by best practice local and international guidelines and procedures to safeguard the Group's sustainability.

COVID-19 has introduced additional operational costs for all of the Group's operations, including the costs of PPE, absenteeism (due to sickness or isolation). These impacts have started to diminish as the Group has learned how to adapt and work in an ongoing COVID-19 environment, however there is a risk of further variants, or other viruses, cause a resurgence of severely ill patients and additional lock-downs.

Factors impacting this risk are:

- Availability of healthcare professionals including nurses and doctors
- The introduction of new laws and regulations limiting the movement of people and goods or curtailing service offerings
- Continually changing best practice guidelines and protocols
- Availability of personal protective equipment for frontline workers
- Capacity within the Group's hospitals and clinics and the impact this has on other service offerings
- Rates of infection, timing of COVID-19 (or other viruses) peaks and recurring outbreaks
- Economic impact of the outbreaks and lock-downs and the availability of government support programmes
- Changing consumer behaviour, including fear and anxiety, which may deter patients from seeking medical care

Business resilience and continuity risk

The social unrest in South Africa (in July 2021) and recent floods in KwaZulu Natal (April 2022) caused significant damage to public and private infrastructure, and disrupted supply chains in these areas.

While none of the Group's facilities were damaged, the ability to get employees and medical supplies (particularly medical oxygen) into some of the Group's facilities was hampered for some days. Ensuring continuity of supply of critical stock, consumables and equipment is necessary to deliver quality patient care and this risk to keeping operations running smoothly 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, was highlighted during these events (as well as during the COVID-19 pandemic).

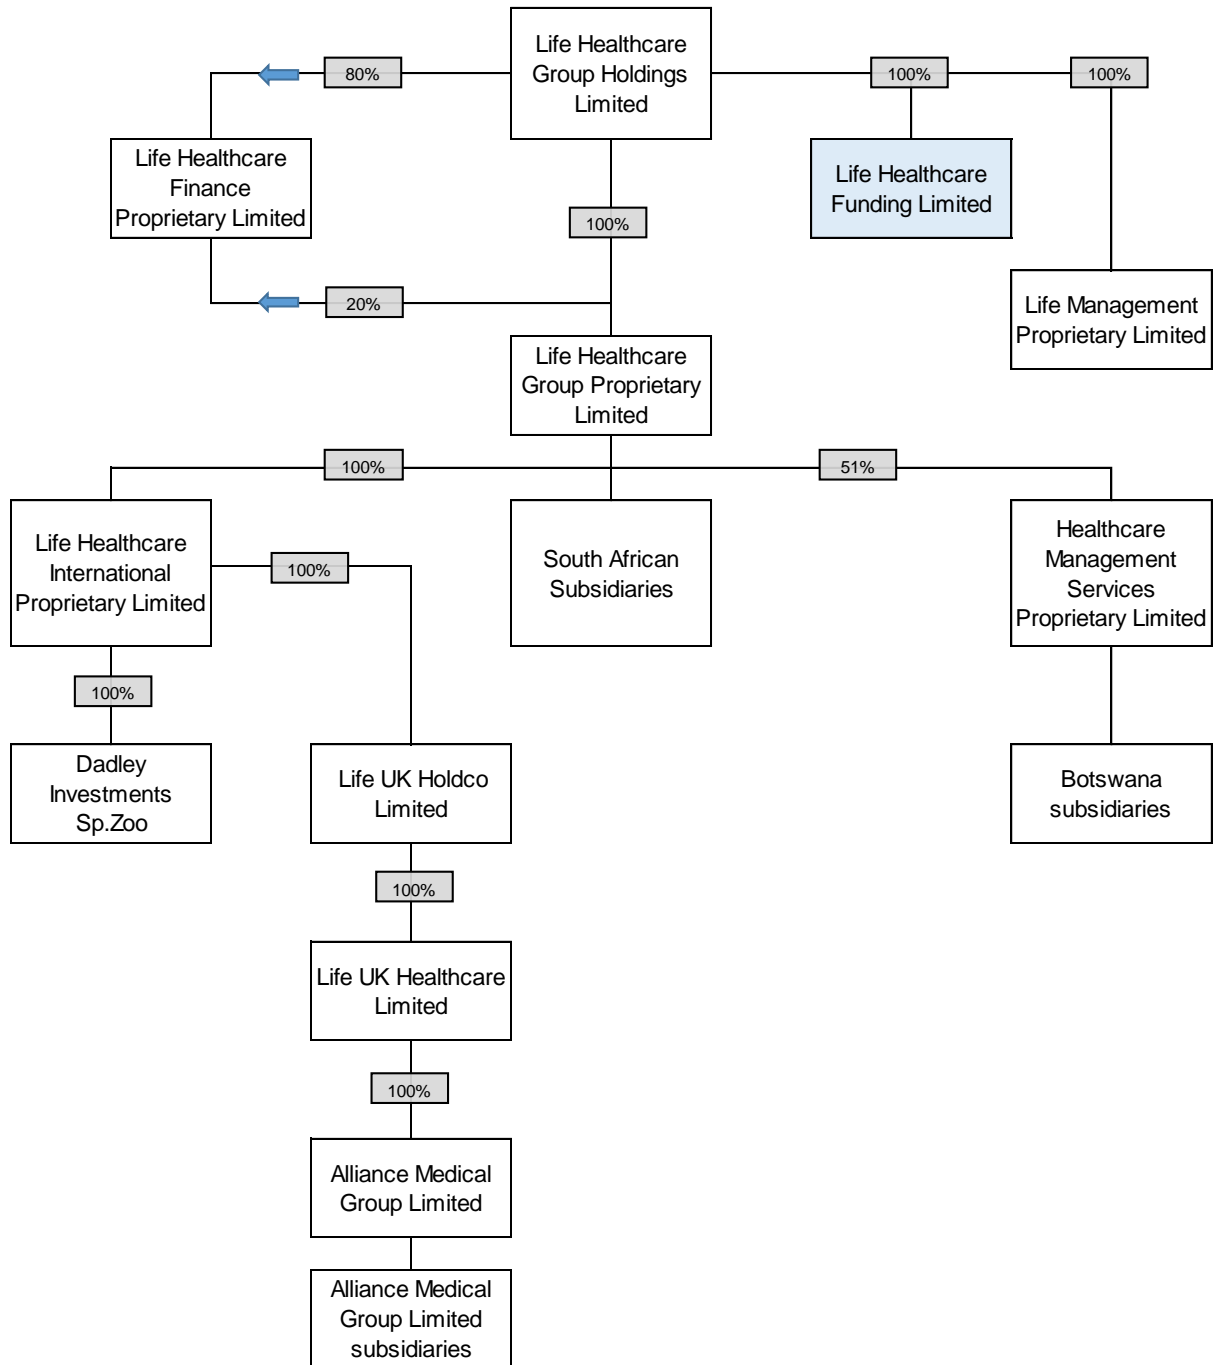

In addition, the lack of reliable electricity supply in the Group's Southern African facilities, and water shortages in some locations, can impact negatively on service delivery capability. To avoid this, the Group has invested in back-up generators, renewable energy supply and back-up water supplies.

Factors impacting this risk are:

- The Group's risk management processes are fundamental to their business and align with their core values and strategic focus areas. The Board is ultimately responsible for governing enterprise risk management and ensuring that an effective and robust enterprise risk management framework and processes are in place. The Board risk, compliance and IT governance committee (RCITGC) and the Group risk management function support and assist the Board with the Group's risk management. The combined assurance process has three lines of defence to ensure accountability and distinguish between risk oversight, owning and managing risks, and providing independent assurance.

- Risks are also monitored according to their nature, potential impact and likelihood. The Group embeds risk management processes into their everyday operations to help identify any events with potential to affect their ability to create value and to manage risks in line with their strategy effectively.
- Line managers and employees ensure that the risk management framework and processes are implemented across the Group. The Group Risk Manager engages with key executives and senior management across the Group to identify risks relevant to both the Southern Africa and international operations, which are then recorded in the Group risk register.
